Danger of Poison Ivy Inflammation Is Small

Poison ivy affects only those persons who have been sensitized to it by previous exposures, according to Lester Hollander, M.D., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Poison of poison ivy is a sensitizing agent. It does not affect every one adversely. Even those in whom it causes a dermatitis are not afflicted by it the first or perhaps the second time they come in contact with it. After the epidermal cells have become sensitized to this poison by several contacts, it creates in many individuals a sensitivity and results in blisters, swelling and inflammation of the skin."

Usually the symptoms appear 4 to 10 days after exposure, the author states. However, the more frequently the patient had previously suffered from poison ivy poisoning the quicker the symptoms appear.

"Not only will the skin react sooner in such patients, but the irritation will also be more intense, dynamic, lengthy and uncomfortable."

The duration of the skin inflammation varies with the severity of the poisoning, sensitivity of the patient, quality of treatment and the reconstructive ability of the affected skin, according to the author.

"Even a moderate attack may be prolonged for weeks and leave the patient exhausted from sleepless nights, restless days and nervousness."

Dr Hollander says that "some experienced medical practitioners maintain that dermatitis venenata or inflammation caused by poison ivy is preventable by immunization. Extracts of the poison plant are administered either by mouth or by hypodermic injections. At present the injection method finds the greatest number of adherents."

Cull Out and Sell Poor Trees, Save Good Ones

Farmers often slaughter their timber when prices are relatively high because they do not know the rate at which value of the timber increases.

For instance, at $10 per thousand board feet, a 16-inch tree is worth only 20 cents as a sawlog. If the tree were cut, it would take 30 years to replace it.

If this 16-inch tree is allowed to grow 6 years and reach 12 inches, its value is 55 cents, nearly triple the 16-inch value. In 12 years it will reach 14 inches and be worth $1.08, or better than five times its value at 16 inches.

By allowing this tree to stand for 6, 12 or more years, you can make about 36 per cent interest annually on your investment.

If the price should not remain at $10, but drop to $5 per thousand board feet, the 6-year-old tree would be worth 46 cents, or more than twice its 16-inch value. If prices should fall back to $4 a thousand as they did from 1932 to 36 the tree would still be worth a little more in 6 years than it is now and in 12 years, it would double its present value.

High prices for relatively poor quality timber must not make this the time to dispose of low quality trees. Cut the limby, knotty, crooked trees and cut out the diseased ones. Save the young, thrifty trees as a bank account growing at 25 to 35 per cent interest, which can be made a steady source.

Capital No Place For Hubby Hunters

Better Chance in Own Back Yard, Says Expert.

WASHINGTON. — Don't come to Washington, girls, if you want to get married.

Ray H. Everett, executive secretary of the district's Social Hygiene society, says you stand a better chance of finding those dreamed-of orange blossoms in your own backyard.

If you must leave home go where the men are—some industrial center such as Atlanta, Flint, Erie or Bridgeport, Conn., Everett advises.

"Washington may be the glamorous capital of the world, but it's slim matrimonial pickings for the girl from the four corners," he says.

He estimates there are about four marriageable women here for every marriageable man, making the nation's capital just about the poorest matrimonial court in the country.

But because Miss Hopefuls persist in coming to Washington, Everett is continuously giving advice and lectures on how to land a man here.

Most of his clients are government girls. Some are sent to him by government agencies.

Others attend his lectures in government dormitory buildings, such as the vast Arlington Farms, or in other meeting halls.

The lantern-jawed Everett talks to them in a language as modern as jive. He draws on his experience as a former sociology professor at George Washington university and as a happily married husband who hasn't forgotten a wedding anniversary in 23 years.

He tells them that secretaries have the best chances of marrying. Next come the women in theatrical work, with stenographers third.

Good grooming goes farther and lasts longer than good looks, he advises. He stresses the importance of developing many interests.

Here, he explains, is a way to meet men: Go in for athletic games, take part in amateur theatricals, become a good dancer and vacation where there are some men to spare.

3 Days Late, Light Keeper Never Missed

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.—A lighthouse keeper whose absence was unnoticed for three days when he drifted helplessly in a crippled motor launch on Lake Michigan was rescued little the worse for wear.

Daniel A. Buckus returned to his duties as light tender at Ile Aux Galets after he was picked up off the southeast tip of Beaver island, 15 miles from here, by coastguardsmen.

Other crewmen at Ile Aux Galets did not become alarmed at Buckus' failure to return from shore leave, supposing he had stayed on the mainland because of a light fog.

Buckus, however, had set out and became stranded just outside of steamer lanes when his motor failed.

Money Showers Oregon Town; Starts Buying

GARIBALDI, ORE.—Manna from heaven, or in 20th century terms, "clover from the clouds," was causing a minor buying spree in this little Oregon coast town recently. Dollar bills fluttered from the sky here, shortly after an airplane had flown over the tiny fishing community.

The dollar bills sprinkled down over fishing boats, homes and business houses. Tom Hess, commercial fisherman, had $16 by the time the flurry ended. Some of the fortune sank beneath the waters of Garibaldi bay, but eager harvesters gained a little pocket money before the "windfall" disappeared.

No flying banks were reported operating in Oregon, but the fishing folk here would just as soon their benefactor flew over again.

South Africa Needs Nicotine

Serious shortage of nicotine sulfate in South Africa, says the department of commerce, "is responsible for the spread of the arsenic-resistant tick, first discovered in the vicinity of East London in 1937-38.

"A survey by the veterinary division of the Union's department of agriculture has revealed infestation throughout Natal and Zululand, with the possibility that it will spread into the Free State and the Transvaal.

"If nicotine is not soon available in quantity, work done in the past toward tick eradication will be lost entirely, reports state."

Black Market Now Is Ruled by Widow

Relict of Mob Leader Takes Over Tokyo Job.

TOKYO. — A 30-year-old widow wearing western-style clothes—and an Oriental air of assurance to match—has moved in as queen of Tokyo's Black Market.

Yoshiko Matsuda claims the high office in the underworld by right of succession. An ex-member of her husband's mob rubbed him out and made her a widow.

The defunct husband, Giichi Matsuda, was the boss of Tokyo's underworld up until the time he announced that henceforth the Black Market would be "legitimate, ethical and businesslike."

Those who didn't want to live under his new ukase of honor among thieves could go back to honest toil, he said—in effect.

One, however, forthrightly decided that bumping off the king of the Black Market could be counted as an honest day's toil.

The killing caused great consternation in Matsuda's empire, whose main place of business is right out in front of Shimbashi railway station in downtown Tokyo.

Oriental aplomb was quickly restored, however, among Tokyo's estimated 5,000 Black Marketeers who had banded together as an association under Matsuda.

They voted to make Mrs. Matsuda the new ruler, and she accepted with alacrity.

In an interview in the room where the last rites were performed for her husband, Mrs. Matsuda—flanked by flowers and funeral wreaths—declared: "I will try to do what my husband failed to do."

Eventually, she said, the Black Market could go legitimate, buying and selling at equitable prices.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Matsuda added with confidence, she would handle both her "association" members and rival racketeers, even if she was the first female ruler Tokyo's tenderloin ever had.

Plane, With Jet Aid, Breaks Speed Mark

DAYTON. — The army air force's XA-26P, powered by one jet and two conventional engines, streaked non-stop from Wright Field to St. Louis and back at 413 miles an hour—a new speed record for an airplane carrying a 1,000 kilogram (2,204 pound) payload over a 1,000 kilometer (621 mile) course. The time of the flight was 1 hour, 30 minutes and 51 seconds.

The record was made under National Aeronautical association rules, topping the previous record of 369 miles an hour set last May by Lt. Edward Grabowski of the Strategic Air Command over the same course with the same payload. The XA-26P was piloted by Lt. Col. T. P. Gerrity, 32, of Chicago.

Tells How Nazis Drafted French Slave Laborers

NEURNBERG. — Fritz Sauckel admitted to the international war crimes tribunal that he forced two million Frenchmen to impose the death penalty on any Frenchman who attempted to interfere with drafting their labor for Germany.

The former Nazi labor chief said he made such "suggestions" and that he "pointed out" sixties of them through. Sauckel said he meant them to be applied, though, only to "serious" cases.

French prosecutors also drew from Sauckel under cross-examination statements that he organized a special force of terrorists to recruit workers for transport to the Reich, and that he had ordered recalcitrant laborers placed in shackles.

The prosecution also charged that Hitler had threatened to take over the rule of France himself unless more slave labor was forthcoming.

Hug by Fiance Is Fatal To Girl, Coroner Finds

LONDON. — Florence Quarrel's fiance hugged her so ardently she fainted and died, a London coroner said recently.

During an inquest, Leslie Bowner told the coroner during peace time, he and the girl, who was 22, had been kissing when she collapsed in an arm chair, rolling her head and gasping for breath. She died a short time later. He had been engaged to her seven months.

A government pathologist testified that during an embrace Bowner exerted pressure on a vulnerable nerve center in his sweetheart's neck which caused immediate paralysis of the lung and heart functions. The coroner ruled that the death was accidental and freed Bowner of responsibility.

Wider Range Is Seen in Radar and Television

WASHINGTON. — Navy scientists predicted that the operating range of ultra-short-wave radio, radar and television some day will extend 2,000 miles. The predictions came from an abandoned air base in the Arizona desert, near Gila Bend, where navy scientists are studying the effect of weather changes on high-frequency radio transmission.

Pasture Improved By Proper System

Fertilizer Addition Produces Good Stand

A pasture improvement system that has enabled farmers following it to increase their grass production 76 per cent through applications of nitrogen in the fall and 60 per cent through spring treatments, was recommended by Prof. D. R. Dodd, extension agronomist of Ohio State university. Professor Dodd measured the results in numerous tests on Ohio farms of nitrogen applications in the fall of 1944 and the spring of 1945 and his findings were based on these tests.

The nitrogen fertilizer was applied on pastures in the form of ammonium nitrate at an average rate of 123 pounds per acre in the fall and 115 pounds in the spring.

Professor Dodd reported that the effect of the plant food on the growth of the grass was more pronounced in fields where legumes made up less than 50 per cent of the stand of grass. But even with a high per cent of clover the increase was 66 per cent. In the various tests studied, 37 farmers who applied an average of 133 pounds of ammonium nitrate on meadows got an average increase of 1,700 pounds of hay per acre.

Better cows will result from better grazing conditions.

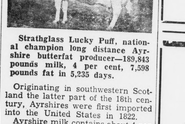
The fall applications made a difference of 1,500 pounds of hay per acre, and spring applications increased yields on an average of 1,700 pounds of hay per acre.

While the average date of fall application of Ohio was October 22, and the nitrogen was placed on the fields in spring as early as possible, Mr. Dodd said the season of applications is not as important as is the farmer's decision to apply the nitrogen one time or another because profitable dividend is assured from either application.

Know Your Breed

Ayrshires

By W. J. DRYDEN



Strathglass Lucky Puff, national champion long distance Ayrshire, 305 day butterfat producer—189,843 pounds milk, 4 per cent—7,598 pounds fat in 5,235 days.

Originating in southwestern Scotland the latter part of the 18th century, Ayrshires were first imported into the United States in 1822.

Ayrshire milk contains about 4 per cent butterfat. A lifetime record of 189,843 pounds of milk has been made.

Ayrshires are well built with stocky body. Mature cows average about 1,050 pounds. A national organization was formed in 1875 to develop and preserve the records and the breed.

"I figured it would help build morale."

Use Vapor to Kill Plant Pests Indoors

The use of azobenzine to control red spider mite on roses and many other plants and flowers in greenhouse and other buildings has been discovered by Cornell university specialists. The substance should be brushed on steampipes like ordinary paint. As the pipes heat, the azobenzine melts and diffuses as a vapor which goes to work on the bugs quickly and effectively. Constantly syringing of plants is not needed.

FATHER DARKLEAF

By The Editor

Labor Day won't be a holiday for the local high school football squad. That's the day the coach, Vince Lasardi, has set aside for practice. 2:30 Monday at high school.

The "Stanley Brothers" paid us a visit Saturday. Rothwell Stanley and Sgt. Smith, of Portsmouth, and I came by here after subscriptions to the paper renewed.

Young Broderick Pack, the engineer of Mr. and Mrs. Broderick Pack, gave his parents a visit the latter part of the afternoon, but it was very brief. The family drove over to the Pack farm a few miles from town. Suddenly Mr. and Mrs. Pack discovered that the young man had disappeared. Many of all manner of things that might have befallen him were searched far and wide. Finally they drove home to get further investigation, and the young Broderick had gone across the Scott farm and over several miles back to Appomattox - and had dragged in after he had found. It was heard Miss Emma Scott wanted an orange for a hen's nest.

ARMY RECRUITER EXPLAINS INSURANCE CHANGES

According to information received by Sgt. John H. Crawley, local Army Recruiter, Insurance Act of 1946, approved Aug. 1, 1946, contains many liberal and important changes effective immediately, in National Service Life insurance.

The importance of these changes to the conservation program cannot be overemphasized, says Sgt. Crawley. The veteran who does not retain or reinstate his National Service Life Insurance is passing up an opportunity that will probably be irreplaceable. Passage of the Insurance Act of 1946 has liberalized and broadened National Service Life Insurance into a flexible peace time contract, suitable for the civilian needs of all veterans. Some of the outstanding features provided are:

(a) Lump sum settlement may be selected by insured.

(b) Removal of restrictions on designation of beneficiaries.

(c) Family Income Endowment policies available upon conversion:

1. 20 year endowment.
2. Endowment at sixty.
3. Endowment at sixty-five.

(d) Total disability income of five dollars per month per thousand dollars of insurance on payment of extra premiums.

All veterans should be advised of these current changes, bearing in mind on leaving the service that "life insurance is "one thing you can take with you."

An information bulletin, prepared by the Veterans Administration, which outlines the salient features of this act is now being distributed.

NAVY SEEKS VOLUNTEERS

The Regular Navy has many benefits to offer those young men who enlist to serve with their nation's colors during peace time. Young men between the ages of 17 and 17 years may now enlist for training as Electronics Technicians Mates. Men selected for this training are given a 45,000 education in advanced stages of radio and radar equipment. After completion of the course, the men are promoted to Petty Officer rates and assigned to duty with the various fleets and shore bases using electronic equipment.

The local Navy Recruiting officer, J. H. Carwile, says there is a waiting list for all vacancies in the Navy except electronic, and advises young men to take advantage of the electronic training now offered while the vacancies exist.

For further information see the Navy Recruiting officer, Room 307, Post Office Building, Lynchburg, or the Traveling Recruiter on his weekly visits Tuesday in Appomattox from 10:30 A. M. to 11:30 A. M. and Farmville from 1:00 P.M. to 3:30 P.M.

Appomattox County's share of ABC Board profits this year will be the largest on record, reaching a total of $26,107.13. This is for the fiscal year ending June 30.

The rate of distribution was on a basis of $3.356 per capita.

On this basis, the town of Appomattox will receive over $3,300.

Residential Development

Col. William A. Coleman, local real estate agent, stated today that work had begun on two new houses in a residential development being opened up on Evergreen Road. The development is just outside the corporate limits of Appomattox. The homes will have modern conveniences, including electricity, and are built on large lots.

MEAT PRICES DROP

Retaining price controls on meat, ordered by the Decontrol Board should mean a considerable saving to the food budgets of Virginia families, Brig. Gen. J. Fulmer Bright, OPA District Director, predicted today.

Complying with orders of the Decontrol Board, OPA has announced a roll-back of meat prices, restored subsidies helping to hold down prices at retail.

"With ceiling prices back in effect on meats - and with ceiling prices restored on meat dairy products as soon as they are prepared - every shopper should pay particular attention to prices she is asked to pay," Gen. Bright said.

PRACTICAL NURSES URGED TO REGISTER

Practical nurses throughout the State were urged today by the State Board of Nurse Examiners to register for license. For the first time, this opportunity has been made possible by legislation passed during the 1946 General Assembly. Miss Josephine McLeod, Secretary to the Board, explained that this will give the practical nurses status and recognition which has hitherto been lacking and they will want to take advantage of this privilege.

Application blanks and instructions for registration may be obtained by writing Miss Josephine McLeod, R.N., Secretary, Virginia State Board of Nurse Examiners, 1015-16 Central National Bank Bldg., Richmond 19, Va.
